

5th-7th July 2007, San Luis Potosi, Mexico.

The Autonomous University of San Luis Potosí in Mexico will host the second international conference on Higher Education for Sustainable Development (HESD) “World in Transition – Sustainability Perspectives for Higher Education” from 5th-7th July 2007. This conference constitutes a significant contribution to the UN-Decade “Education for Sustainable Development”. The conference will focus mainly on higher education’s contributions to different processes of change - local, regional or international - during transition to global sustainability. The goal is to provide room for current debates and experiences which refer to the relation between the North and the South. INWEB coordinator J. Ganoulis will deliver a paper on “The Role of Regional Academic and NGO Partnerships in Promoting Water/Environmental Sustainability”.
