

INWEB participates, under the umbrella of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, in the Erasmus + Programme entitled "Trans-regional environmental awareness for sustainable usage of water resources" – in short TREASURE-WATER.

The project aims to strengthen the cooperation between the Russian Federation and Kazakhstan. Both countries share the watershed of the Ob River and have similar national and regional priorities in the fields of higher education and environment. Both also want to develop partnerships with enterprises. The consortium therefore will contribute to empower universities in the Russian Federation and Kazakhstan by enhancing synergy between higher education and enterprises in the field of trans-boundary water resources management.

More information related to the aims of the project and the consortium could be retrieved in the project's web page:
