

20th February, 2010, Alexandria, Egypt

The final dissemination workshop of this project in which the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, represented by INWEB coordinator Prof. J. Ganoulis, is a partner, will be held on February 20, 2010 at Alexandria University

. The aim of the workshop is to present the results, outcomes and experiences gained over the last two and half years of the

MEW

R project in curriculum development and to disseminate the key results to wider audiences. The workshop will also demonstrate the wide span of knowledge and experiences of European university partners in curriculum development, water education, quality assurance, ECTS, etc.. The workshop is intended for state specialists, scientists at research and education centres, water policy makers/advisors and water managers as well as researchers from academic institutions and young professionals.

Prof. Ganoulis will work entitled "From the MSc in Environmental and Water Resources Management (MEWR) to the Real World: interfacing science and policy".

<http://www.alex.edu.eg/>